Agricultural Safety and Children

Getting Started

Resources to serve the interests and needs of your local community may be close to home. Local agencies may have videos, resources, pamphlets, and project ideas to address the issue of childhood agricultural injuries in your community.

Local Sources

- Cooperative Extension office
- Youth agricultural leadership group, family physician, public health service, or health care facility
- Local agricultural organizations, cooperatives, implement dealers, or farm bureau
- State Extension farm safety specialist (list enclosed)
- State Maternal and Child Health agency or injury prevention program (list enclosed)
